VIVA Cruises 2027 – As Diverse as Europe Itself

Some routes inspire; others stay with you long after the journey ends. I am truly delighted that we have once again brought these two essential travel experiences together in our 2027 main catalogue, offering more destinations, more extraordinary itineraries and more variety than ever before.

Alongside exciting new discoveries, our much-loved classics return, including the castles, vineyards and charming towns of the Rhine, Main and Moselle, regions that remain as timeless and captivating as ever. We will also be cruising to the sun-drenched Douro and along the Danube to the breathtaking Danube Delta. This diverse blend of vibrant cities, spectacular landscapes and rich culture, experienced from the all-inclusive comfort of our fleet, is what makes every journey special to me.

A particular favourite of mine is our culture ship, VIVA RUBY. Small and intimate, she is perfectly suited to those routes that larger vessels simply cannot navigate. From Northern Germany to Poland, she reveals new perspectives that are authentic, full of character and best experienced up close.

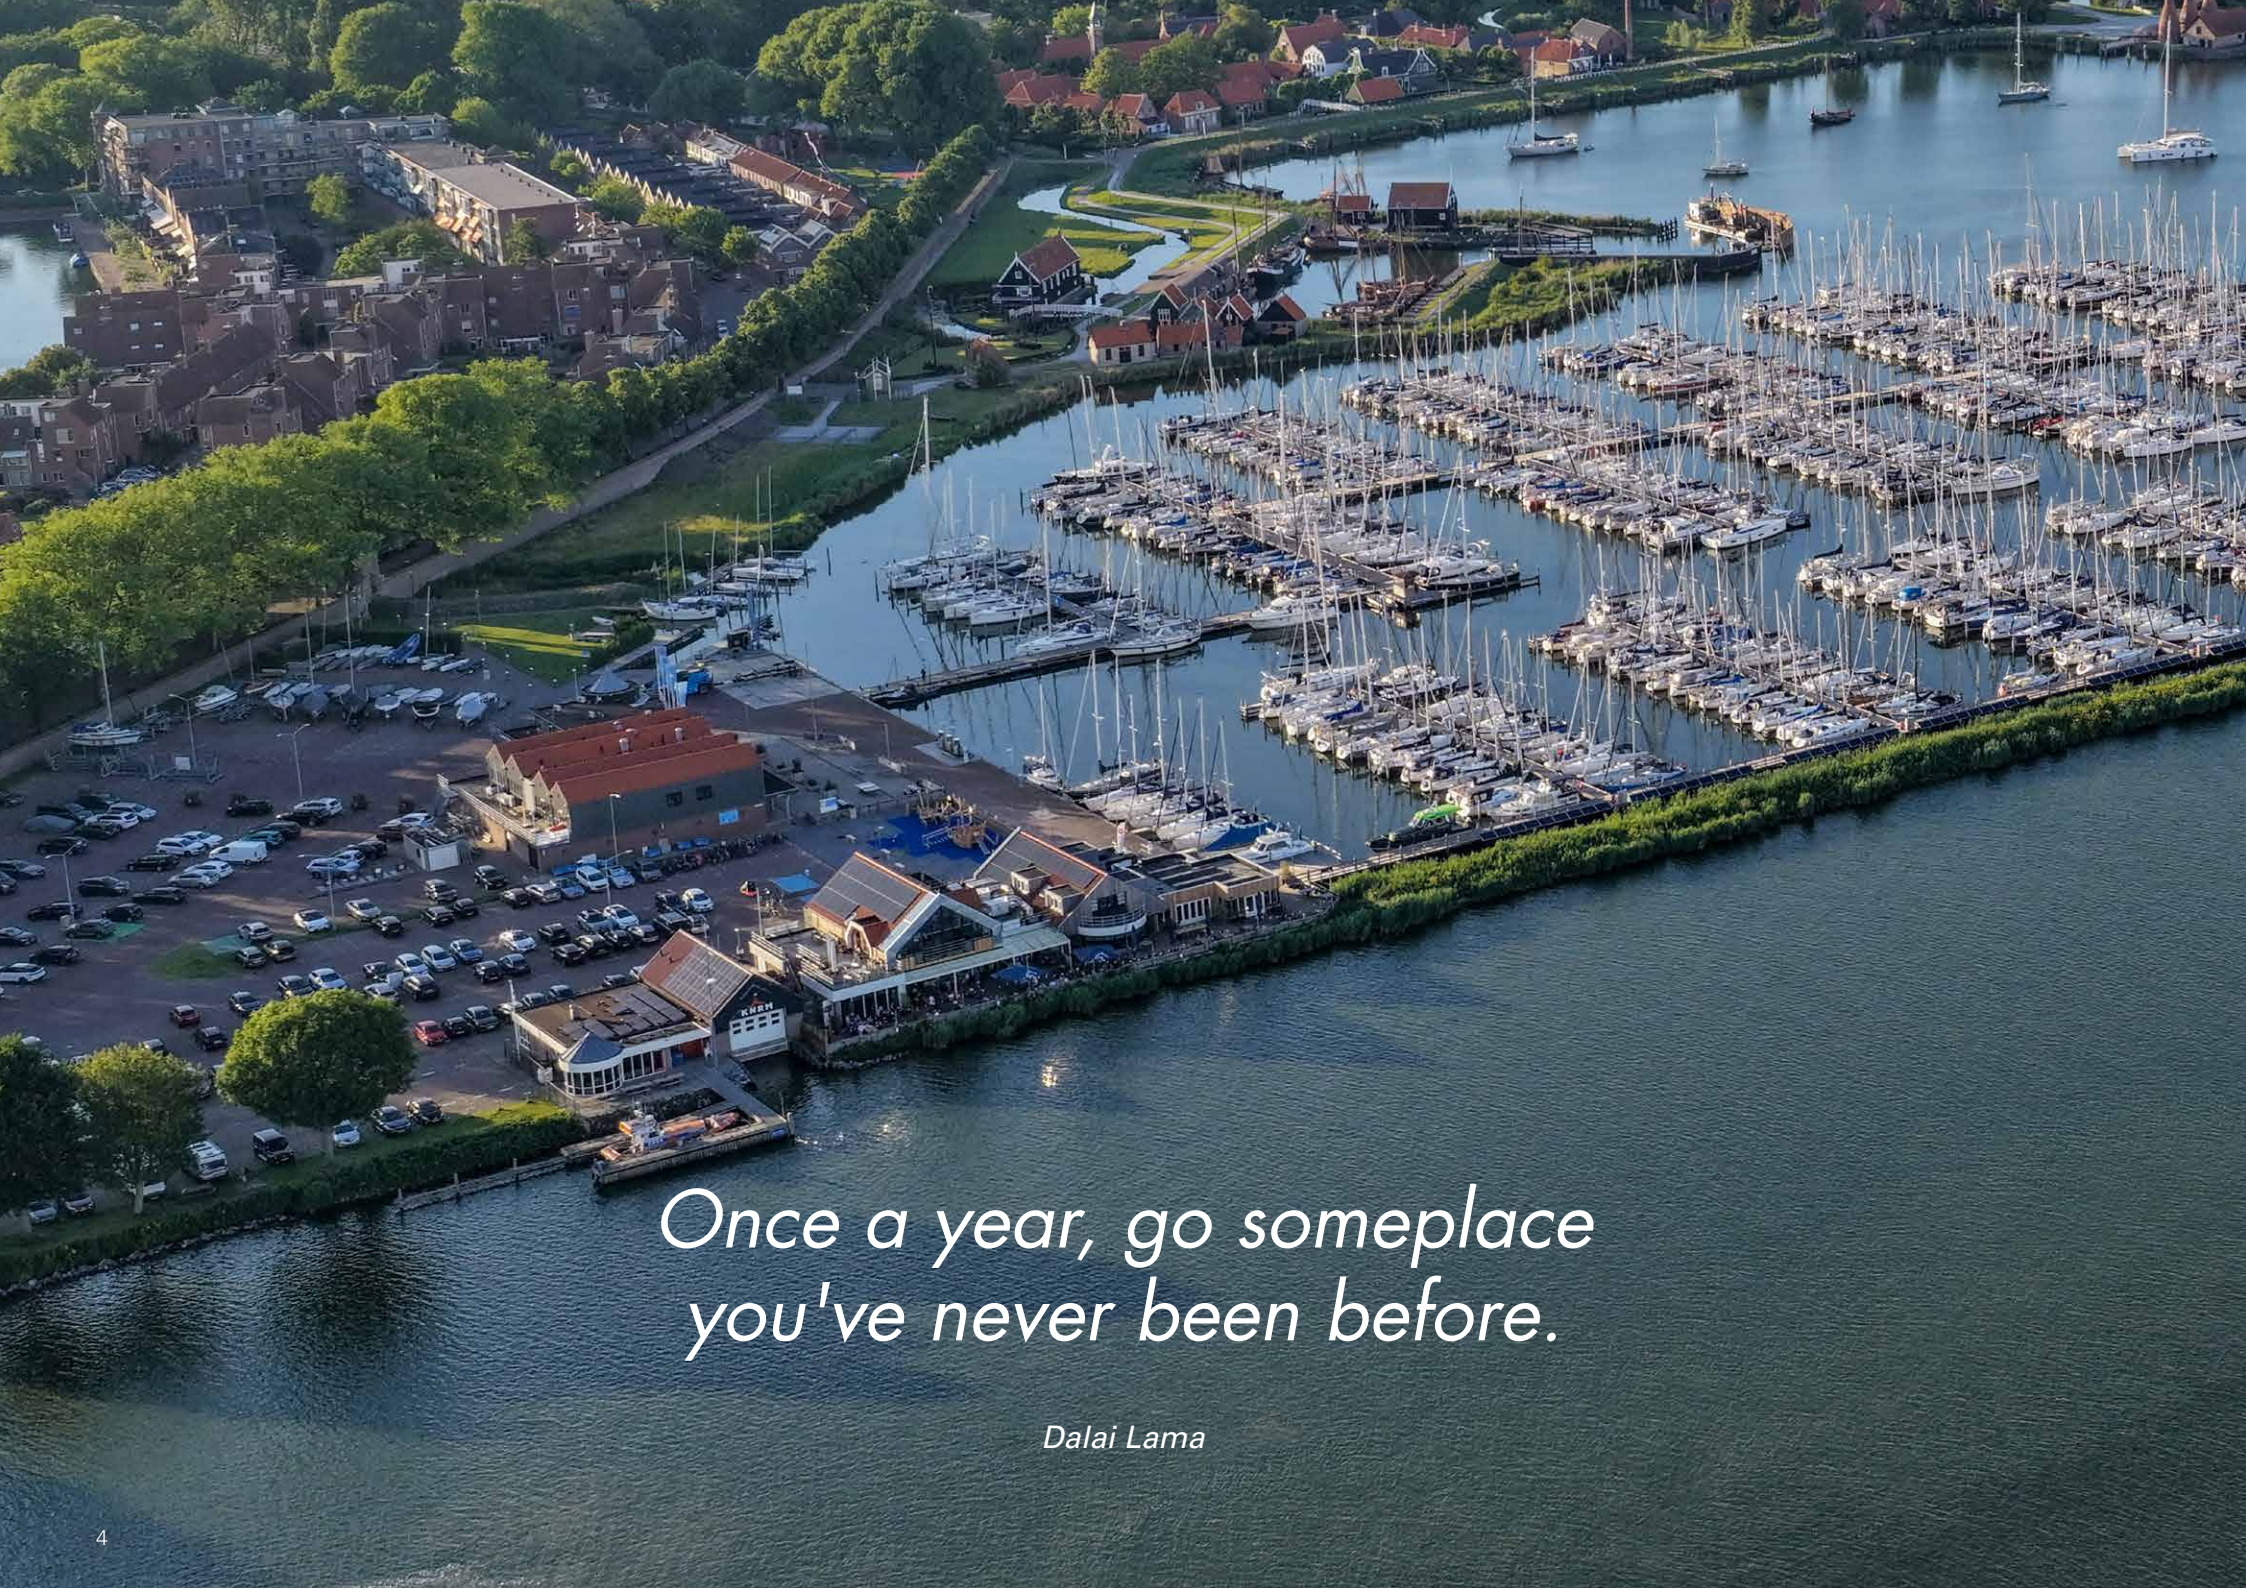

Without question, my personal highlight is cruising from Berlin to Stralsund, before continuing by coach to the Danish design capital of Copenhagen. This combination of spectacular river cruising and the Scandinavian way of life is truly something to experience.

I warmly invite you to rediscover Europe with us in 2027 – relaxed, inspiring and with that unmistakable VIVA feeling.

ENJOY THE MOMENT!

Enjoy readings by renowned crime authors, engaging live podcast recordings and insightful lectures by our experts, bringing fresh perspectives on the history and culture of the places you visit.

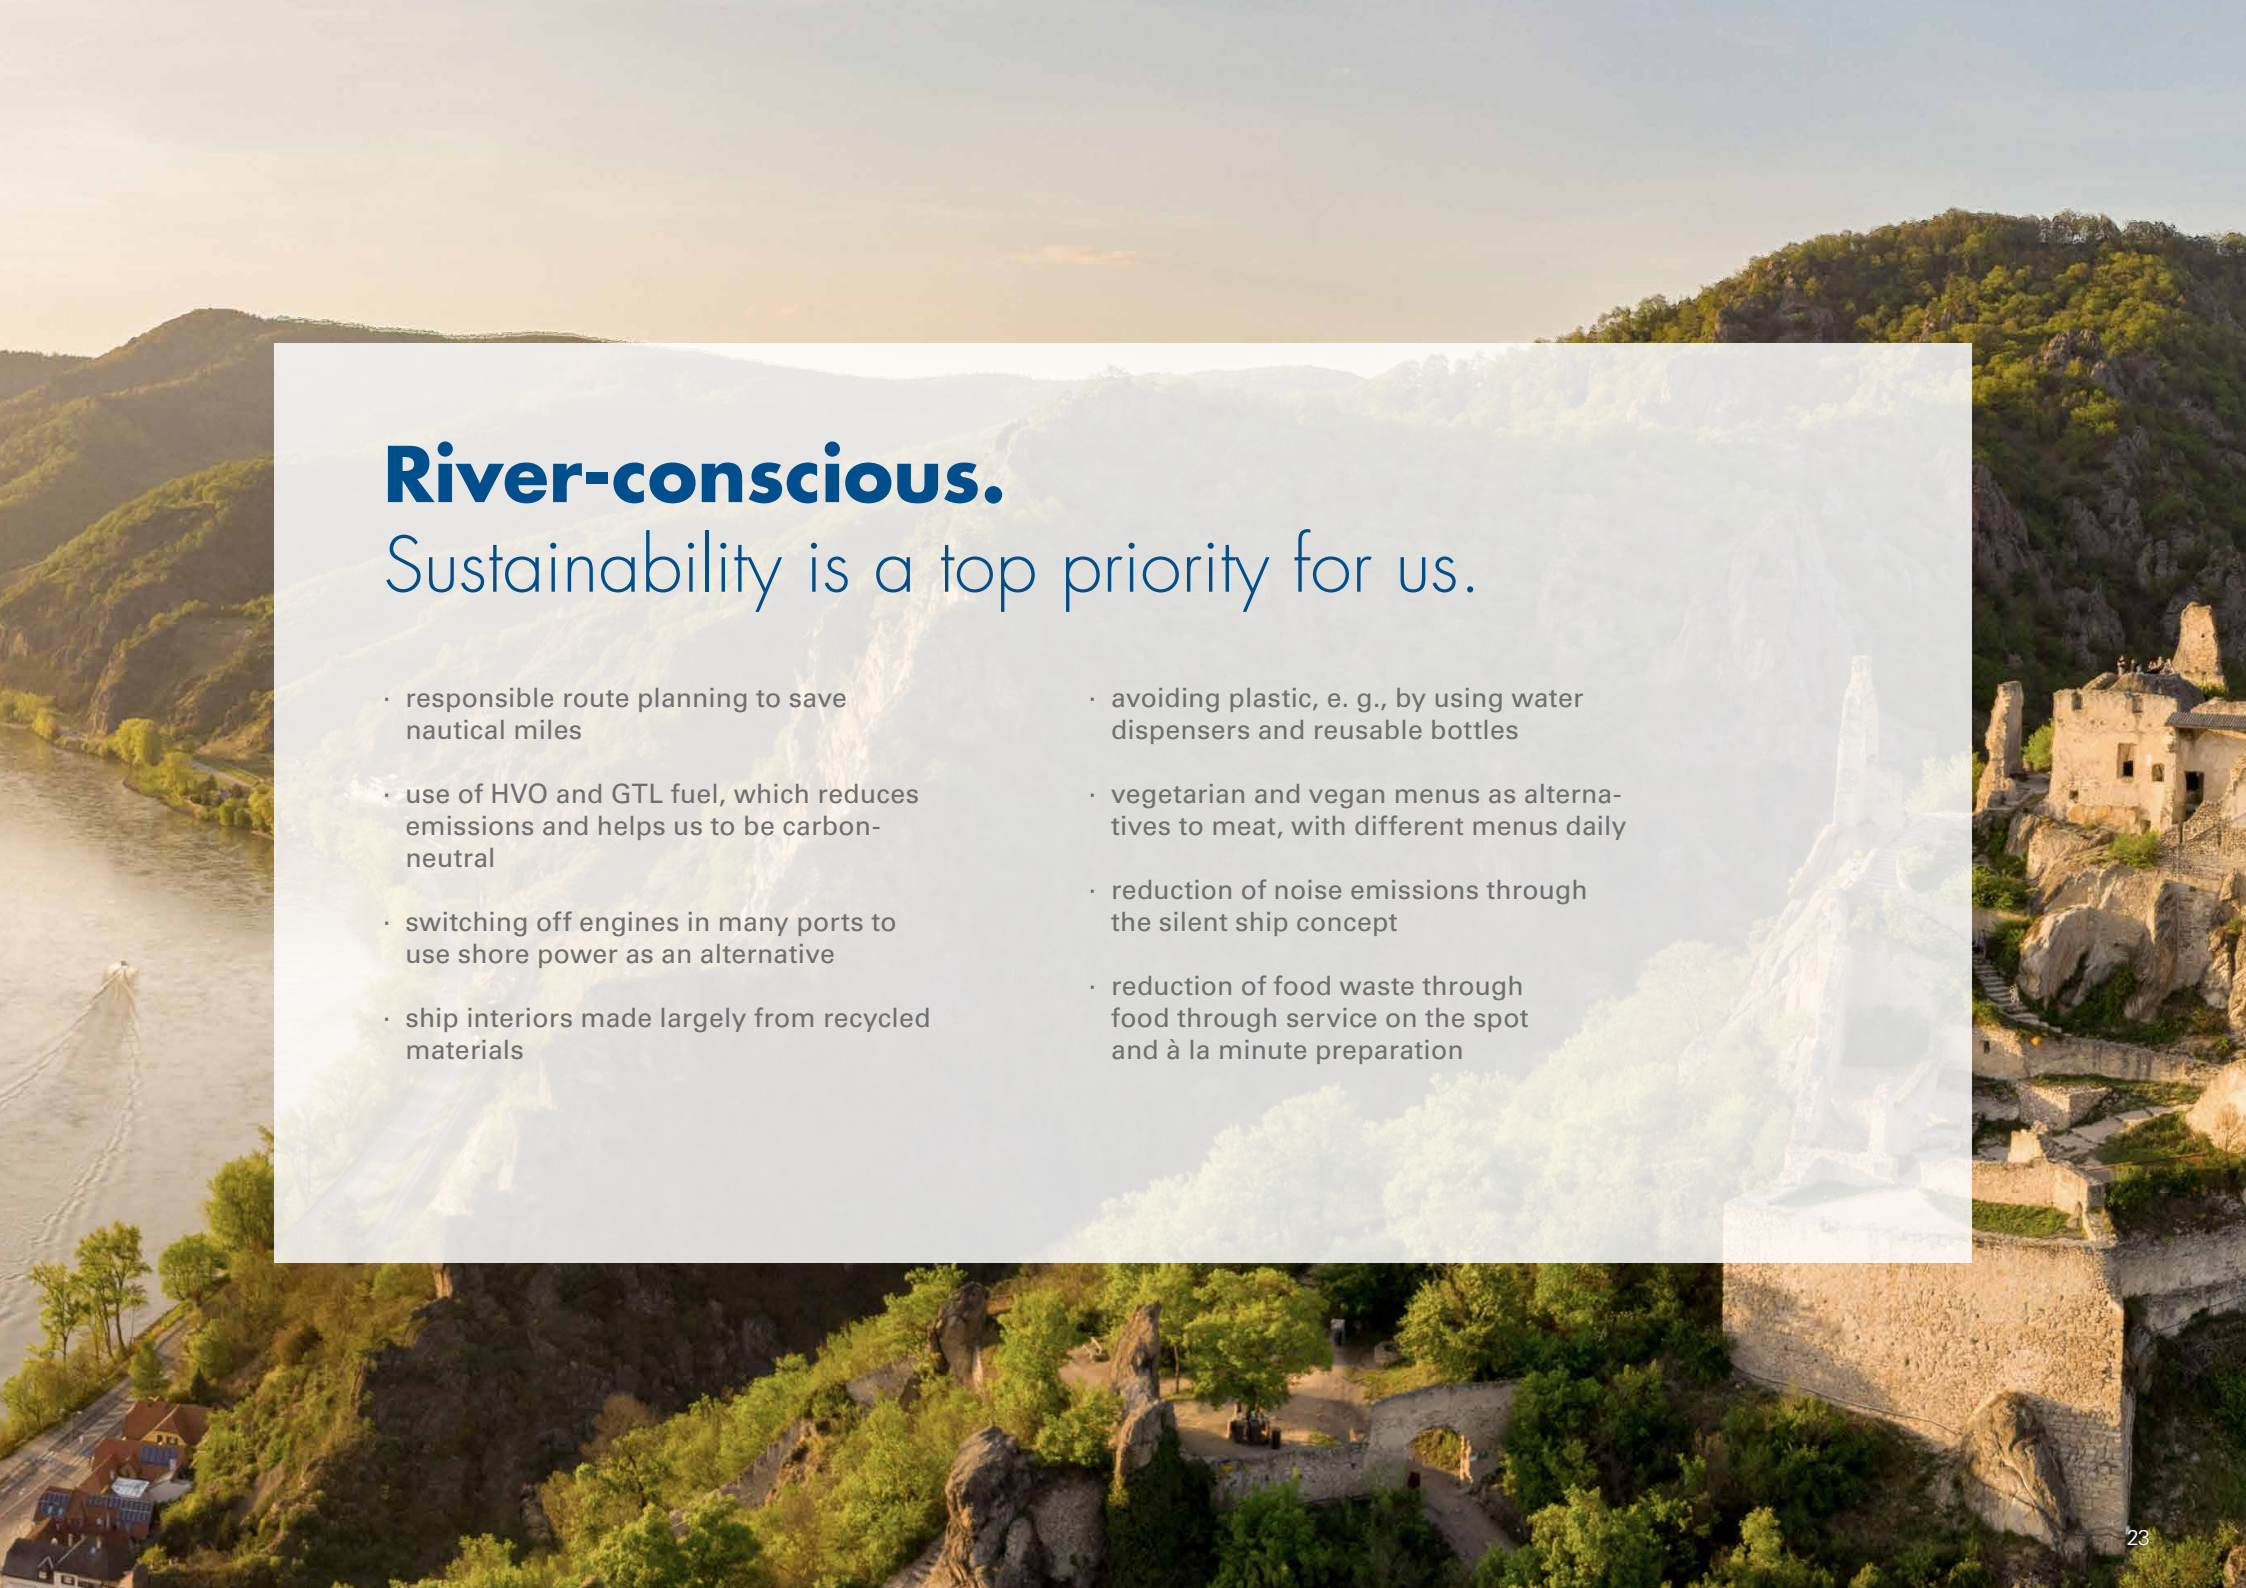

Of course, it wouldn’t be VIVA without our much-loved Signature Party from the 70s to the 90s, when the ship transforms into a vibrant dance floor.

Whether culture, show or celebration, VIVA offers something for every taste.

VIVA SUSTAINABILITY

We take responsibility for people, nature, and the river. See for yourself and get to know our philosophy personally.

River-conscious.

Sustainability is a top priority for us.

- responsible route planning to save nautical miles
- use of HVO and GTL fuel, which reduces emissions and helps us to be carbon-neutral
- switching off engines in many ports to use shore power as an alternative
- ship interiors made largely from recycled materials
- avoiding plastic, e. g., by using water dispensers and reusable bottles
- vegetarian and vegan menus as alternatives to meat, with different menus daily
- reduction of noise emissions through the silent ship concept
- reduction of food waste through food through service on the spot and à la minute preparation

The Douro Valley

One of Portugal's most breath-taking cultural landscapes, the Douro Valley is famous for its steep undulating vineyards, beautiful villages and exceptional light.

Since 2001 the Alto Douro Wine Region has been recognised as a UNESCO World Heritage Site, a seal of approval in keeping with its long tradition of viticulture, unlike anywhere else in the world. The borders of the Douro were officially defined as early as 1756, largely to protect its most famous export, Port wine, making it one of the world's oldest regulated wine regions and a valley full of history, character and flavour.

Don't miss the UNESCO-listed old town, the impressive Dom Luís I Bridge, and those gorgeous views across the rooftops, bridges and river.

Another highlight is São Bento Station, famous for its stunning painted, glazed ceramic tiles known as azulejos, while food lovers will also be delighted by Porto's delicious specialities, including the famous Francesinha sandwich, best enjoyed with a glass of Port.

Whether served in a bread roll, as the famous "Drei im Weggla," or the classic way with sauerkraut, they are a treat not to be missed. The city is also famous for its Lebkuchen (gingerbread), a sweet symbol of Nuremberg's centuries-old baking tradition.

For the perfect accompaniment, why not try a locally brewed beer or a glass of Franconian wine, a specialty of northern Bavaria that complements the local cuisine's rich, hearty flavours.

The Netherlands

Familiar enough to feel friendly, yet full of delightful surprises, some Dutch words carry a warmth and lightness almost impossible to capture in English, giving them a unique charm. Take gezellig, for example, which evokes cosiness, good company, and an unmistakable feel-good atmosphere, yet has no direct translation.

Even a few words of Dutch can turn a simple conversation into a memorable holiday moment, bringing a sense of friendliness, humour, and local character.

Whether ordering a coffee, chatting with locals, or joining a guided excursion, these linguistic touches make every moment in the Netherlands feel a little more special, just like the country itself.

Strasbourg's Highlights

Strasbourg is a paradise for food lovers, a place where Alsatian classics, French finesse and regional traditions combine to delight the taste buds and awaken the senses.

The best way to start is in one of the old town's cosy winstubs, informal restaurants furnished with rustic wooden tables, filled with a warm atmosphere, and the irresistible aroma of freshly baked tarte flambée (flammekueche), a dish often compared to pizza. Other must-try Strasbourg classics include choucroute (Alsatian sauerkraut) and baeckeoffe, a slow-cooked casserole with deep cultural significance. Pair either with a glass of Alsatian white wine, such as Riesling or Gewürztraminer, and you have the perfect match for a delicious regional taste.

The best way to discover Strasbourg at its most authentic is to simply wander and follow your nose, especially in the winding lanes of La Petite France, where bakeries, pâtisseries and traditional eateries await at every turn.

The Cube Houses in Rotterdam are a striking architectural project by Piet Blom. The distinctive tilted, cube-shaped homes stand on pillars, creating a unique cityscape with plenty of open space at ground level. The concept behind them was to create a small, connected "village" in the heart of the city, combining urban living and creativity in a truly distinctive way.

Rotterdam's Architecture Bites

Rotterdam's bold skyline, innovative design and buzzing atmosphere create a dynamic urban experience, in a city where striking landmarks and delicious local cuisine go hand in hand.

Highlights include the Erasmus Bridge (affectionately known as "the Swan") and the famous Cube Houses, designed by architect Piet Blom. Another standout attraction is the Markthal, a stunning horseshoe-shaped building with a vast glass façade and spectacular ceiling artwork that immediately catches the eye.

Inside, you'll find a lively market with an incredible variety of international specialities, where you will have the opportunity to enjoy some selected tastings for a delicious introduction into Rotterdam's foodie scene.

You'll find this and many more excursions online at www.viva-cruises.com.

Swiss German

In Switzerland, people speak German, but in a very distinctive way. Swiss German isn't a single language, but a collection of dialects that vary from region to region. In Basel, for example, "Baseldytsch," as the language here is known, tends to sound a little softer and more melodic than in other parts of the country.

One of the most charming aspects of this is how many words have a connection to the English. A bicycle is a "Velo", a shopping bag is a "Sack", and then there's the famous Swiss "-li" ending which you can spot everywhere: a house becomes a "Hüsli", a coffee is a "Käffeli". Even farewells can feel warmer, with "Adieu" replacing the usual "Bye".

Swiss German might sound unusual at first, but that's exactly what makes it so warm, distinctive and full of personality. These little differences are part of what gives Basel its unique charm.

Düsseldorf's "Radschläger"

As much a part of Düsseldorf as the Rhine itself, the Radschläger, or cartwheeling children, have delighted locals for centuries and remain the city's most recognisable symbol.

Legend has it that in 1288, following the Battle of Worringen – a nearby conflict that reshaped the region – the children of Düsseldorf celebrated their newfound freedom by cartwheeling with joy.

Today, the Radschläger are visible in a variety of forms throughout the city, from sculptures along the Rhine promenade, to fountains, manhole covers and in shop windows, not to mention as a popular souvenir.

These happy children represent joy, civic pride, and Düsseldorf's unmistakable character. They are a delightful reminder of how the city carries its history with a light, cheerful spirit.

The Lorelei

The Lorelei is one of the most famous landmarks along the Middle Rhine and has been surrounded by myths and legends for centuries. Rising around 130 metres above the river, the steep slate rock marks one of the Rhine's narrowest and most dramatic passages.

The Lorelei became especially famous through the legend of the beautiful maiden whose enchanting song distracted sailors and was said to cause countless shipwrecks. This romantic tale inspired poets such as Heinrich Heine and helped make the site known around the world.

Today, the Lorelei fascinates visitors not only through its legend, but also through the unique cultural landscape of the UNESCO-listed Upper Middle Rhine Valley, with its steep vineyards, castles and picturesque towns.

The Iron Gates

The Iron Gates are one of Europe's most spectacular natural river passages. Here, the Danube squeezes through a narrow gorge between the Carpathian Mountains and the Balkan range, creating a breathtaking landscape full of drama and beauty. Towering cliffs, tight bends, and the sense of being incredibly close to the steep rock faces make this stretch unforgettable.

Gliding along the river, the Iron Gates reveal even more majesty, with monumental rock formations, ancient inscriptions, fortress remains, and wide, almost fjord-like sections of water.

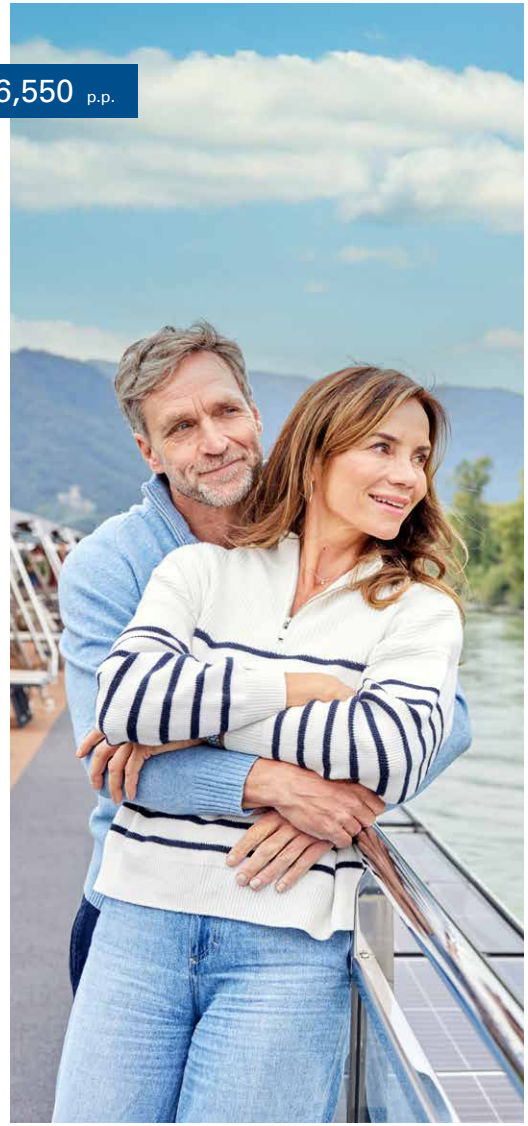

With a favourite drink in hand, and, if luck allows, some bright sunshine overhead, the sun deck is the perfect place to take in this magnificent marvel of nature.

In the morning, this unique cultural landscape shows itself at its very best, its gentle hills and steep vineyard terraces rising serenely above small villages only just beginning to stir.

For centuries, life here has been shaped by wine and tradition. Cruising through the valley, you will pass romantic castles, imposing abbeys and world-renowned vineyards, where both the Grüner Veltliner and Riesling grape varieties flourish.

The region is also renowned for another delicious speciality, the Wachau apricot, prized for its intense aroma and traditionally used to make jams, desserts and fine liqueurs.

Belgrade

As the Danube flows south-east towards the lively, historic city of Belgrade, the character of the river seems to change. Serbia's capital occupies a spectacular position where the Danube meets the Sava, a meeting point of routes and cultures that has shaped the city for centuries.

Rising above the water, the Kalemegdan Fortress is its most recognisable landmark, offering sweeping views over the rivers and skylines of the city. At street level, vibrant squares and cafés mingle with other historic remnants and more modern neighbourhoods, creating a warm and welcoming atmosphere.

Belgrade provides a dramatic southern contrast, before the journey continues onward to Budapest and Vienna, and finally back to Passau.

Vienna – Schönbrunn Palace

One of Austria's most historically significant landmarks, the magnificent Schönbrunn Palace was originally conceived as a hunting lodge, before being transformed in the 18th century by Austrian Archduchess Maria Theresa into a Baroque masterpiece, which remained the imperial family's summer residence for well over a century.

A visit here takes you through selected state rooms including private apartments, reception halls and ceremonial chambers, each adorned with ornate stucco ceilings, elegant furnishings and exquisite artworks. Empress Elisabeth "Sisi" and her husband Franz Joseph I also left an indelible mark on the palace, as did many other members of the House of Habsburg. Their history and splendour remain very much alive within these grand halls today.

Meissen Porcelain

Meissen is widely regarded as the birthplace of European porcelain, after the long-sought secret of “white gold” was finally unlocked here in 1710. This discovery led to the founding of the Meissen State Porcelain Manufactory, the continent’s first porcelain factory and a milestone in art and craftsmanship.

Renowned for its exceptional quality, delicate modelling, and intricate hand-painting, Meissen porcelain quickly gained fame throughout Europe. To this day, the iconic crossed swords trademark remains a symbol of outstanding quality and centuries-old tradition.

A visit to Meissen offers a fascinating insight into how this world-famous porcelain is made, making the town an unmissable cultural highlight on the route between Berlin and Prague.

Follow in Martin Luther's footsteps and discover Wörlitz. You'll find this and many more excursions online at www.viva-cruises.com.

Lutherstadt Wittenberg

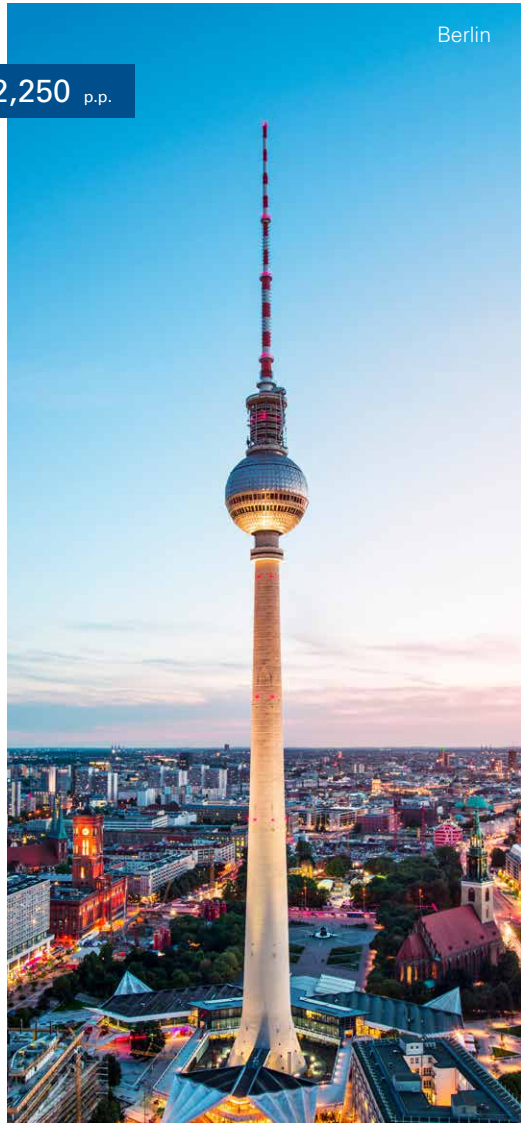

Lutherstadt Wittenberg is one of the most significant centres of the European Reformation. It was here that Martin Luther lived and worked, and where his ideas set a profound change in motion. In 1517, he is said to have nailed his 95 Theses to the door of Castle Church, an act that marked the beginning of the Reformation and brought Wittenberg worldwide recognition. Today, the historic Luther House, Melanchthon House, and Castle Church itself continue to tell the story of this transformative era.

The region is also home to another cultural treasure, the UNESCO-listed Dessau-Wörlitz Garden Realm. In Wörlitz Park, you can enjoy a leisurely stroll through sweeping landscaped gardens, along scenic paths, over graceful bridges, past elegant classical buildings.

VIVACULINARY

Berlin keeps it hearty

When it comes to food in Berlin, there's no big show. Whether at a counter or grabbed on the go, people just eat. At shared tables, in bustling market halls, or cosy neighbourhood cafés, you'll find food that is honest and straightforward, yet always a little different.

A must-try is the currywurst, which can be served "with or without skin" but always topped with the city's distinctive curry-ketchup sauce. For something more substantial, try a Boulette meatball, or indulge in a hearty classic such as Eisbein with pea purée.

Berlin also has its own quirky food terminology that can surprise visitors. For example, the jam-filled doughnut known as a Berliner elsewhere in Germany is called a Pfannkuchen in Berlin, while everywhere else in the country, "Pfannkuchen" usually means a pancake. And if you order a simple bread roll, don't be surprised when it arrives as a Schrippe, the local name for this everyday staple.

Meyer Werft Papenburg

Founded in 1795, Meyer Werft is one of the most renowned modern shipyards in the world, best known for building some of today's most impressive ocean liners. What makes it truly remarkable, however, is its location in the city of Papenburg on the River Ems, which is not on the coast, but is some 25–30 km inland from the North Sea.

When a completed ship leaves the shipyard, the River Ems becomes the stage, as crowds regularly gather to watch each massive ocean-going vessel navigate the narrow channel, something that is always a spectacular sight.

A behind-the-scenes tour offers an up-close look at the advanced technology, precision engineering and expert craftsmanship that have earned Papenburg its place among the world's leading centres of shipbuilding.

Münster

Bicycles are a way of life in Münster. On the Prinzipalmarkt, along the Promenade, and between the old town and Lake Aasee, the city's character has long been shaped by bikes, students and history.

Münster is also often referred to as the "city of peace," in recognition of the Peace of Westphalia treaty, which was signed here in 1648, bringing to an end the Thirty Years' War. This legacy is reflected in the city's museums, its churches, and its civic spirit, which values dialogue, culture and education.

Thanks to an overnight stay, you can experience Münster at its evening best, when cosy cafés and bars come to life in the beautifully illuminated old town, and the university's youthful energy gives the city an open, lively and modern feel.

Szczecin

Shaped by local tradition and the sea, Szczecin's rich culinary heritage is a delight for all the senses, especially the taste buds. Situated on the Baltic coast at the delta of the Oder River, it's little surprise that Szczecin's cuisine features an abundance of fish dishes, including pike-perch, herring and cod, most of which are typically prepared and garnished with fresh herbs.

Classic Polish staples are also well represented, from the famous pierogi (filled savoury or sweet dumplings) to hearty soups such as żurek or borscht, ideally paired with a local beer or a glass of Polish vodka.

Szczecin is a down-to-earth, welcoming city that's perfect for exploring, even on your own.

Niederfinow Ship Lift

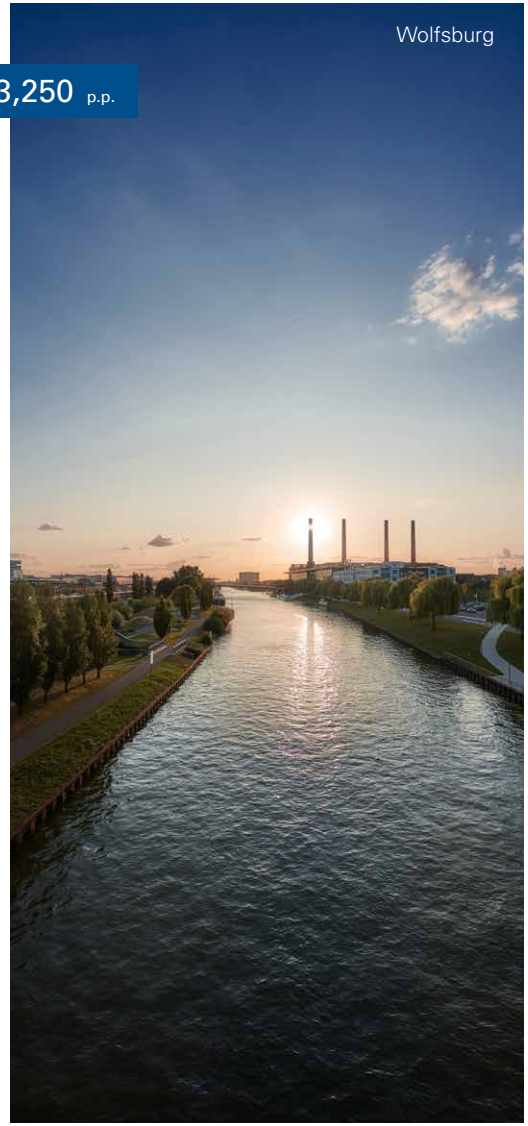

The Niederfinow Ship Lift is a true engineering masterpiece and one of the most impres-sive structures of its kind in Europe. For more than 90 years, it has carried vessels up and down a height difference of around 36 metres, connecting two sections of the Oder–Havel Canal in spectacular fashion.

Viewed from the water, the passage is a special moment. As the ship slowly rises or descends within the huge steel structure, you gain a unique perspective of the river, the shipyard, and the surrounding landscape. From the sun deck or the lounge, you can watch this seamless choreography of technology and movement, a memorable experience that adds something truly unique to the journey.

On this engaging guided tour, you'll visit key landmarks including Leine Castle, the Old and New City Halls, the Market Church, the Opera House, Wangenheim Palace, and Leibniz House, so named after the philosopher who lived here until his death in 1716.

Wander the magnificent Royal Gardens of Herrenhausen, admire the Welfenschloss royal palace, and see the Waterloo Column, which commemorates Hannoverian troops of the Napoleonic era. The city also boasts a lively cultural scene, including modern street art and unique designer bus stops, as well as the colourful Nanas sculptures by Niki de Saint Phalle.

MAGDEBURG: MARVELS OF MAGDEBURG

Duration: 4 hours Transport: on foot / bus Difficulty: moderate

Discover the rich legacy of Magdeburg, capital of Saxony-Anhalt, a city rebuilt after devastating wars and fires, where centuries of history combine with striking modern architecture.

At Rotehorn Park, enjoy magnificent views across the River Elbe towards the Old Town before heading to Hasselbachplatz, known locally as “Hassel”, one of Germany’s most impressive Art Nouveau squares and a lively hub of cafés and culture.

On Domplatz, admire the beautifully restored Baroque buildings and the majestic Magdeburg Cathedral, the oldest Gothic cathedral in Germany and final resting place of Emperor Otto I. Nearby, the wondrous façades and organic forms of the Grüne Zitadelle (Green Citadel) represent the final architectural project in Germany designed by the artist Friedensreich Hundertwasser.

Continuing past one of Germany’s most important Romanesque monasteries, the Kloster Unser Lieben Frauen (Monastery of Our Lady) and the Gothic St. John's church, keep an eye out for some decorative façades in the so-called “Zuckerbäcker” or ‘wedding cake’ style.

At the Alter Markt (Old Market), you’ll find monuments to notable figures such as Otto I and Otto von Guericke, as well as the Magdeburg Sports Walk of Fame, celebrating the achievements of more than one hundred local Olympians from different eras.

OLDENBURG: OLDENBURG ODYSSEY

Duration: 4 hours Transport: on foot Difficulty: moderate

Steeped in over 900 years of history, Oldenburg first gained importance as a ford across the River Hunte in Northern Germany, before becoming the royal seat of counts and grand dukes. Today it retains an elegant blend of historic architecture and contemporary life.

Expansive green spaces, including the Schlossgarten and Botanical Garden, lie close to one of Germany's oldest pedestrian zones, making the city ideal for a walking tour. Along the way, you'll encounter notable landmarks including the magnificent Oldenburg Castle, the neoclassical State Theatre, and the Renaissance-style Town Hall.

Your guide will share fascinating insights and lesser-known stories, tracing Oldenburg's journey from its medieval roots to its role as a ducal capital and its modern identity as a lively university town.

An "Odyssey" in both name and spirit, Oldenburg is perfect for curious minds and lovers of authentic city culture.

SZCZECIN: SZCZECIN / STETTIN CITY DISCOVERY

Duration: 3 hours Transport: on foot Difficulty: moderate

Known as Stettin in Germany, the Polish city of Szczecin is a fascinating port city on the Oder River, with broad avenues and ambitious public spaces developed in the 19th century in the style of Georges-Eugène Haussmann, who shaped much of Paris.

A drive through the city reveals elegant Art Nouveau façades and grand boulevards, giving parts of Szczecin a distinctly Parisian feel. Your walking tour then takes you to the Stare Miasto (Old Town) and the Pomeranian Dukes' Castle, one of Central Europe's best-preserved Renaissance castles. Originally begun in the 14th century, it was expanded over subsequent centuries and partially reconstructed following World War II.

You'll also see the building where Catherine II of Russia (Catherine the Great) was born in 1729, as well as the Monument to the Polish Endeavour, known as the Three Eagles Monument, which symbolises three generations of Szczecin inhabitants before and after World War II.

The famous Wały Chrobrego, or Haken Terrace, is a sweeping 500-metre river terrace developed in the early 20th century where your ship will be moored. It provides the perfect place to conclude your tour with some panoramic views and a memorable photo opportunity.

„VIVA Cruises – arrive, feel at home, and indulge. A truly special way to travel. … What I love most is the style of travelling itself: on the water, it's so easy to slow down and unwind. The gentle, peaceful glide of the ship takes away the hustle and bustle of everyday life. The friendly and attentive crew already brings a smile to my face in the morning. … And then there are the beds! Whether on a river or ocean cruise, I sleep better in these beds than I do at home — and from the very first night. I've even joked: "One day, I'm going to pack up one of these beds and take it home with me."

General Terms and Conditions[1]

1. Conclusion of package travel contract / liability for fellow passengers

1.1 The following applies to all bookings through any channel:

a) The offer underlying the contract is based on the travel proposal and supplementary information provided by VIVA Cruises for the respective package travel (hereinafter "Package Tour", "Tour" or "Package"), provided that these are available to the customer at the time of booking.

b) The customer shall be responsible for all contractual obligations of fellow passengers for whom he[2] makes the booking, in the same manner as for his own to the extent that he has assumed this obligation in an express and separate statement.

c) If the content of the notice of acceptance from VIVA Cruises deviates from the content of the booking, VIVA Cruises is deemed to have made a new offer, by which VIVA Cruises is bound for a period of ten days. The contract is concluded on the basis of this new offer provided that VIVA Cruises has pointed out the changes with respect to the new offer and complied with its pre-contractual obligation to provide information and if the customer declares his acceptance thereof to VIVA Cruises within the aforementioned binding period by express statement or by effecting the down payment.

d) Travel agents (e.g. tourist agencies) and service providers (e.g. carriers) are not authorized to make agreements, provide information or give assurances which alter the agreed content of the Package Travel Contract, go beyond the services contractually promised by VIVA Cruises or contradict the travel proposal.

e) VIVA Cruises notifies the customer of his rights under data privacy laws on the separate data privacy information sheets and asks him to take note of them.

1.2 The following applies to bookings made orally, by telephone, in writing, by email, text message or fax:

a) With his booking (travel registration) the customer submits a binding offer to VIVA Cruises for the conclusion of the Package Travel Contract ("Contract" or "Package Travel Contract").

b) The Contract is concluded upon receipt of the booking confirmation (notice of acceptance) by VIVA Cruises. It does not require any particular form. Upon or immediately after conclusion of the Contract, VIVA Cruises will send the customer a travel confirmation in writing or in text form.

1.3 The following applies with regard to the conclusion of the Contract to bookings by way of electronic business transactions (e.g. Internet, apps, telemedia[3]):

a) The process of online booking is explained to the customer on the respective application.

b) The customer has the option to make corrections (with explanations provided of how to use this option) for correcting his entries, deleting or resetting the entire booking form.

c) The contractual languages offered for online booking are specified.

d) If the text of the Contract is stored by VIVA Cruises, the customer will be informed accordingly, including the possibility of later retrieval of the text of the Contract.

e) By pressing the button "booking subject to payment", the customer submits a binding offer to VIVA Cruises for the conclusion of the Package Travel Contract.

f) The customer will immediately receive confirmation of receipt of his booking (travel registration) by electronic means (confirmation of receipt).

g) The transmission of the booking (travel registration) by pressing the button "booking subject to payment" does not establish a claim of the customer for the conclusion of a Package Travel Contract in accordance with his booking (travel registration). The Contract is concluded upon receipt of the booking confirmation from VIVA Cruises by the customer provided on a permanent data medium.

h) If the booking is confirmed immediately after pressing the button "booking subject to payment" by a display of the booking confirmation directly on the screen, then the Package Travel Contract has been concluded with the display of this booking confirmation. In this case, there is no need for an interim notification of the receipt of the booking according to lit. f) above, provided that the customer is offered the option to save the booking confirmation on a permanent data medium and to print it. However, the binding nature of the Package Travel Contract does not depend on the customer actually using these options for saving or printing the confirmation.

1.4 VIVA Cruises points out that according the law (Sections 312 Paragraph 7, 312g Paragraph 2 Sentence 1 No. 9 German Civil Code (Bürgerliches Gesetzbuch; "BGB") package travel contracts pursuant to Sections 651a and 651c BGB entered into as distance contracts (letters, catalogues, telephone calls, faxes, email, text messages sent by cell phone as well as radio, telemedia and online services) are not subject to the customer's right of withdrawal from the Contract but only to the customer's statutory rights of cancellation and termination, in particular the right of cancellation pursuant to section 651h BGB (see also Clause 5 in this respect). There is a right of withdrawal, however, if the contract for travel services according to Section 651a BGB was entered into outside business premises, unless the oral negotiations, on which the conclusion of the contract is based, were conducted on the basis of a prior order of the consumer; in that latter case, the right of withdrawal does not apply.

2. Payment

2.1 VIVA Cruises has insolvency insurance (customer finance guarantor contract) with tourVERS to cover the travel price to be paid by the customer. A guarantee certificate will be attached to the travel confirmation, to the copy of the Contract or their back. VIVA Cruises and travel agents may only demand or accept payments on account of the travel price before the end of the Package Tour if an effective customer finance guarantor contract is in place and the customer has been provided with tourVERS's name and contact details in a clear and comprehensible manner, with that information highlighted. After conclusion of the Contract and handing over of the guarantee certificate, a down payment of 20% of the travel price becomes due for payment. The balance is due 30 days prior to the commencement of the Tour, provided that the guarantee certificate has been handed over and the Package Travel Contract can no longer be cancelled for the reason stated in Clause 8.1.

2.2 If the customer does not make the down payment and/or the payment of the balance in accordance with the agreed payment due dates even though VIVA Cruises is ready and in a position to properly perform its contractual services, has complied with its legal obligation to provide information, and the customer has no statutory or contractual right of retention, VIVA Cruises is entitled to cancel the Package Travel Contract after a reminder setting a deadline, and to charge the customer cancellation costs in accordance with Clause 5.2 sentence 2, to Clause 5.6.

3. Changes to the contents of the contract prior to the commencement of the tour not affecting the travel price

3.1 VIVA Cruises is permitted to deviate prior to the commencement of the Tour from the agreed content of the Package Travel Contract with respect to essential features of travel services, where such deviations become necessary after conclusion of the Contract and were not brought about by VIVA Cruises in bad faith, provided that such deviations are insignificant in nature and will not impair the overall Package Tour.

3.2 VIVA Cruises is entitled to in particular but not limited to make changes in travel times, routes and/or means of transport which become necessary due to the special conditions affecting travel by ship, due to security reasons or weather conditions or high or low water, due to orders issued by authorities (e.g. travel warnings issued by the Federal Foreign Office, restrictions due to an epidemic), for the protection of the health and safety of employees, crew and/or customers (e.g. from an epidemic) or for other reasons for which VIVA

Cruises is not responsible, provided that these are minor changes only that will not affect the overall character of the Tour.

3.3 VIVA Cruises is obliged to inform the customer of any change to the travel services without undue delay after knowledge of its reason, on a permanent data medium (e.g. including an email, text message or voice message) in a clear and comprehensible manner, with that information highlighted.

3.4 In the event of a significant change of an essential feature of a travel service or a deviation from special specifications of the customers, which have become part of the Package Travel Contract, the customer is entitled to the following within the reasonable period set by VIVA Cruises in the notification of the change:

- either accept the change;
- or cancel the Package Travel Contract at no charge;
- or request participation in a substitute tour if VIVA Cruises offered one.

The customer has the option to respond or not to respond to VIVA Cruises' notification. If the customer responds to VIVA Cruises, he may either agree with the change of the Contract, request his participation in a substitute tour if one is offered to him, or cancel the Contract at no charge. If the customer fails to respond to VIVA Cruises or fails to do so within the period set, the notified change shall be deemed to have been accepted.
The customer must be made aware of this in a clear and comprehensible manner, with that information highlighted, in the notification pursuant to Clause 3.3 above.

3.5 Should the changed services be defective, potential warranty claims shall remain unaffected. If VIVA Cruises had lower costs for the performance of the changed or substitute tour for equivalent quality, the customer must be reimbursed in the amount of the difference in accordance with Section 651m Paragraph 2 BGB.

4. Price changes after conclusion of contract

4.1 VIVA Cruises reserves the right to change the price agreed in the Package Travel Contract in the event that the increase in the travel price results directly from an increase occurring after conclusion of the Contract in the price for the carriage of passengers due to higher costs for fuel or other energy sources (costs of carriage), taxes and other charges for agreed services such as tourist taxes, port or airport charges or air passenger taxes or a change in the exchange rates applicable to the relevant Package occurring after conclusion of the Contract, as follows:

a) If the underlying costs of carriage (in particular fuel costs) increase after conclusion of the Package Travel Contract, VIVA Cruises may increase the travel price according to the following calculation:

- In the case of an increase related to the seat or bed, VIVA Cruises may charge the amount of the increase to the customer.

- In other cases, the additional costs of carriage charged by the carrier per means of transport are divided by the number of seats or beds of the agreed means of transport. The amount of the increase resulting from that calculation may be charged by VIVA Cruises to the customer for the individual seat or bed.

b) If taxes and other levies such as tourist taxes, port/airport charges or air passenger taxes applicable at the time of conclusion of the Package Travel Contract charged to VIVA Cruises are increased, the travel price may be increased by the corresponding proportional amount.

c) In the event of a change in the exchange rates after conclusion of the Package Travel Contract, the travel price may be increased to the extent that the Package has become more expensive for VIVA Cruises as a result.

d) In the event of a subsequent change in the travel price, VIVA Cruises must inform the customer without undue delay in a clear and comprehensible manner on a permanent data medium (e.g. an email) about the price increase, its reasons and the calculation of the increase. The price may not be increased less than 20 days before the commencement of the Tour.

e) VIVA Cruises may not unilaterally increase prices by more than 8%. VIVA Cruises shall offer the customer the price increase and request that the customer either accept it within a reasonable period of time or cancel the Contract at no cost. The offer to increase the price may not be made less than 20 days before the commencement of the Tour. VIVA Cruises may also offer the customer to participate in another Package (substitute). The customer has no legal claim to this option. Upon expiry of the period specified by VIVA Cruises, the offer to amend the Contract shall be deemed accepted. The acceptance by the customer of any substitute VIVA Cruises may offer requires the customer's express notice of acceptance to VIVA Cruises.

4.2 At the customer's request, VIVA Cruises is obliged to reduce the travel price if and to the extent that the costs of carriage, taxes or exchange rates referred to in Clause 4.1 have changed after conclusion of the Contract and before the commencement of the Tour to such extent that the Package comes at a lower cost to VIVA Cruises. If the customer has paid more than the amount owed as a result, VIVA Cruises shall refund the excess amount, while VIVA Cruises is entitled to deduct the actual administrative expenses incurred. At the customer's request, VIVA Cruises shall provide evidence of the amount of administrative expenses incurred.

5. Cancellation of the contract by the customer prior to commencement of the tour/cancellation costs

5.1 The customer may cancel the Package at any time prior to the commencement of the Tour. The cancellation must be expressed by notice given to VIVA Cruises. If the Package was booked through a travel agent, the notice of cancellation may also be given to the agent. It is recommended that the customer give his notice of cancellation in text form on a permanent data medium.

5.2 If the customer cancels prior to the commencement of the Tour or does not set out on the Package Tour, VIVA Cruises loses the right to claim the travel price. Instead, VIVA Cruises may claim appropriate compensation if VIVA Cruises is not responsible for the cancellation or if unavoidable, extraordinary circumstances occur at or in the immediate vicinity of the destination which significantly impair the performance of the Package Tour or the carriage of passengers to the destination. Circumstances shall be deemed unavoidable and extraordinary if they are not under the control of the party that invokes them and their consequences could not have been avoided even if all reasonable precautions had been taken.

5.3 VIVA Cruises has determined the following lump sum compensation, taking into account the period between the notice of cancellation and the commencement of the Tour as well as the expected cost savings and the expected earnings by the use of the travel services in another way. The compensation shall be calculated as follows after the date of receipt of the notice of cancellation:

- up to 120 days prior to the commencement of the Tour 10%,
- from the 119th to the 90th day prior to the commencement of the Tour 20%,
- from the 89th to the 30th day prior to the commencement of the Tour 40%,
- from the 29th to the 15th day prior to the commencement of the Tour 60%,
- from the 14th to the 1st day prior to the commencement of the Tour 80% of the travel price,
- Cancellation on the date of the Tour or failure to set out on the Package Tour: 90% of the travel price.

5.4 In any case, the customer is at liberty to prove to VIVA Cruises that VIVA Cruises has incurred no damage or a substantially lower damage than the lump sum claimed by VIVA Cruises.

5.5 VIVA Cruises reserves the right to claim a higher compensation instead of the above lump sums, calculated individually on the basis of the travel price less the value of the costs saved by VIVA Cruises and less what VIVA Cruises earns through the use of the travel services in another way. In this case, VIVA Cruises is obliged to justify upon the customer's request the amount of the compensation claimed.

5.6 If, in the case of a jointly booked double cabin, one passenger paying full fare cancels prior to the commencement of the Tour, with the consequence that the double cabin is now used as a single cabin, VIVA Cruises is entitled to the compensation specified under 5.3, but at least to a lump sum compensation in the amount of the surcharge otherwise payable for a single cabin at the time of booking. The same applies if a customer paying full fare cancels a cabin booked for several passengers, so that a cabin, which is originally intended for three or four people, is used by fewer people.

5.7 If VIVA Cruises is obliged to reimburse the travel price (if already paid) as a result of the cancellation, VIVA Cruises shall reimburse it without undue delay, but in any case within 14 days of the cancellation.

5.8 VIVA Cruises strongly recommends that the customer take out travel cancellation insurance and luggage and travel accident insurance (in the event that interruption of travel, e.g. due to an accident, becomes necessary).

6. Change of reservation

6.1 After conclusion of the Contract, the customer is not entitled to changes with regard to the travel date, the destination, place of departure, accommodation or the mode of carriage (rebooking). This shall not apply if the rebooking is required because VIVA Cruises failed to provide the customer with pre-contractual information as defined in Art. 250 Paragraph 3 Introductory Act to the Civil Code ("EGBGB"), or provided insufficient or erroneous pre-contractual information; in this case, rebooking is allowed free of charge. If, in all other cases, a rebooking is nevertheless made at the customer's request at least 90 days prior to commencement of the Tour, VIVA Cruises may charge a rebooking fee of 50€ per customer. In individual cases, e.g. where flights are involved, the additional rebooking costs may be considerably higher.

6.2 Any rebooking requests made by the customer after expiry of the 90-day period, if possible at all, requires the cancellation of the Package Travel Contract in accordance with the terms set forth in Clauses 5.2 to 5.7 with simultaneous new registration. This does not apply to rebooking requests that cause only negligible costs.

6.3 Any airline charges for the correction of names on airline tickets that have already been issued (as opposed to a change of the passenger) may be passed on to the customer. In addition to this, VIVA Cruises may also charge a rebooking fee of 50€ in these cases.

6.4 The customer may make a declaration to VIVA Cruises up to 7 days in advance of the commencement of the Tour that not the customer himself but a third party will join the Package Travel Contract as a party to the Contract, assuming all rights and obligations thereunder. This declaration must be made on a durable medium (paper or electronic). VIVA Cruises is entitled to object to the third party joining the Contract if that third party is not in compliance with the contractual requirements for the Tour. If a third party joins the Contract, this third party and the customer shall be liable to VIVA Cruises as joint and several debtors for the travel price and the additional costs incurred due to the third party joining the Contract. These additional costs must be appropriate and must have actually been incurred, which VIVA Cruises shall prove to the customer.

6.5 Rebooking fees are due and payable immediately.

7. Services not used

If the customer does not make use of individual travel services properly provided to him for reasons attributable to him (e.g. premature return or for other compelling reasons), he is not entitled to a pro rata refund of the travel price, unless such reasons would have entitled him to cancel or terminate the Package Travel Contract free of charge in accordance with the law. VIVA Cruises will endeavor to reimburse the expenses saved by the service providers. This obligation shall not apply in the case of entirely insignificant services.

8. Minimum number of participants not reached/Cancellation by VIVA Cruises prior to the commencement of the Tour

8.1 The minimum number of participants for all VIVA Cruises Package Tours is 80 persons.
If the minimum number of participants is not reached, VIVA Cruises may cancel the Package Travel Contract only if VIVA Cruises has

a) specified the minimum number of participants in the pre-contractual information and has given the latest date by which the notification must be received by the customer prior to the contractually agreed commen cement of the Tour; and

b) specified the minimum number of participants and the latest date for cancellation in the travel confirmation.

Notice of cancellation must be given to the customer by the 31st day prior to the agreed commencement of the Tour at the latest, but in any event no later than by the date indicated to the customer in the pre-contractual information and the travel confirmation. Should it become apparent at an earlier point in time that the minimum number of participants cannot be reached, VIVA Cruises must exercise its cancellation right without undue delay.

8.2 VIVA Cruises may also cancel the Package Travel Contract prior to the commencement of the Tour if VIVA Cruises is prevented from fulfilling the Contract due to unavoidable extraordinary circumstances. Circumstances are unavoidable and extraordinary if they are beyond the control of the party invoking them and their consequences could not have been prevented even if all reasonable precautions had been taken. Unavoidable and extraordinary circumstances are e.g. wars, civil wars, natural disasters, occurring epidemics (in particular the Covid-19 epidemic), terrorist attacks as well as official orders issued after the conclusion of the Contract, entry bans (in particular due to epidemics) and travel warnings of the Foreign Office for the destination or an intermediate destination of the Tour. Notice of cancellation according to this Clause 8.2 must be given to the customer without undue delay upon becoming aware of the reason for the cancellation. VIVA Cruises may cancel the Package Travel Contract if it is necessary, for economic reasons, for the vessel intended to be used for the Tour to be redeployed elsewhere (e.g. in the event of it being exclusively chartered by a third party). Notice of cancellation must be given to the customer by the 31st day prior to the agreed commencement of the Tour at the latest. Should it become apparent at an earlier point in time that the vessel intended to be used for the Tour must be redeployed elsewhere, VIVA Cruises must exercise its cancellation right without undue delay. Notice of cancellation according to this Clause 8.2 must be given to the customer without undue delay upon becoming aware of the reason for the cancellation.

8.3 If VIVA Cruises cancels the Contract in accordance with above Clause 8.1 or 8.2, VIVA Cruises loses the right to claim the agreed travel price. If it has already been (partially) paid, VIVA Cruises shall refund the payments made without undue delay, but in any case, within 14 days. There is no right to claim additional compensation in the event of cancellation in accordance with Clauses 8.1 and 8.2.

9. Rescission/Termination of contract by VIVA Cruises for reasons related to behavior, illness, or pregnancy

In the following cases, VIVA Cruises may rescind the Package Travel Contract in whole or in part without notice prior to the commencement of the journey, or terminate the Package Travel Contract in whole or in part without notice after the commencement of the journey:

a) If the customer, in the judgement of the captain, where applicable, after having consulted the ship's physician,

- is unfit to travel due to illness, infirmity, or for any other reason;
- needs to be accompanied but travels unaccompanied;
- is a danger to the health of other passengers, crew members, and employees of VIVA Cruises (e.g. due to contagion or threat of epidemic spread, e.g. Covid-19) ;

- has booked by providing false information
- notwithstanding a warning from VIVA Cruises, causes permanent or repeated disturbance or behaves contrary to the Contract to such an extent that the immediate cancellation of the Contract in whole or inpart is justified;

b) in the event of pregnancy, if the customer is in her 24th week of pregnancy or beyond at the time of departure or if she reaches the 24th week of pregnancy during the voyage. In these cases, the carriage is excluded for safety reasons and due to limited medical care on board VIVA Cruises vessels. If the customer could not have known this at the time of booking, VIVA Cruises will reimburse the travel price already paid if notified immediately after the customer becoming aware of the pregnancy. If such notification is culpably delayed, VIVA Cruises reserves the right to make a claim in accordance with Clause 5. Expectant mothers less than 24 weeks pregnant at the time of embarkation must present a specialist (gynecological) certificate of fitness to travel confirming the navigated area. If VIVA Cruises terminates or rescinds the Contract for any of the reasons specified under a) above, the customer may be entirely or partially excluded from the (continuation of the) Tour. VIVA Cruises retains the right to claim the travel price; however, VIVA Cruises must take into account the value of the cost savings as well as those benefits that VIVA Cruises obtains from the use of the travel services in another way, including the credits VIVA Cruises receives from the service providers. Any additional costs incurred for the return trip shall be borne by the customer.

10. Duties of the customer to cooperate

10.1 Travel documents
The customer must inform VIVA Cruises if he has not received the required travel documents (e.g. flight ticket, train ticket, hotel voucher) within the period specified by VIVA Cruises.

10.2 Notice of defects / Request for remedy of defects
If the Package Tour is not provided free from travel defects, the customer may claim remedial action. If the customer culpably fails to notify VIVA Cruises immediately of a travel defect and VIVA Cruises was therefore unable to remedy the situation, the customer is not entitled to assert claims for reduction in price according to Section 651m BGB or claims for damages according to Section 651n BGB. This shall not apply only if the notice of defect is clearly futile or unreasonable for other reasons. The customer is obliged to notify the representative of VIVA Cruises at the holiday destination of the defect without undue delay, i.e. the tour guide on board or on site. If the tour guide is not available, or if there is no tour guide and none is owed under the Contract, any travel defects must be reported to VIVA Cruises at its registered office under the contact information provided. Information on how to contact the tour guide or VIVA Cruises is included in the booking confirmation or is provided at the latest with the travel documents. The tour guide is charged with remedying the situation, provided this is possible and does not entail disproportionate costs, taking into account the extent of the defect and the value of the travel service concerned. If VIVA Cruises/the tour guide invoke the impossibility or economic inefficiency of the remedy for a considerable part of the travel services, VIVA Cruises shall, if possible, offer the customer an appropriate, equivalent alternative service comparable to the service agreed upon in the Contract. The tour guide is not authorized to recognize claims.

10.3 Period allowed for remedy prior to termination of Contract
If the Package Tour is substantially impaired by a defect and a customer wishes to terminate the Package Travel Contract according to Section 651l BGB due to a defect of the kind described in Section 651i Paragraph 2 BGB, provided that it is substantial, he first has to set VIVA Cruises an appropriate period for remedy. This shall not apply if immediate remedy is necessary or the remedy is refused by VIVA Cruises.

10.4 Clauses 10.1 and 10.2 are only applicable to package travel contracts concluded before 8 March 2020. Regarding all package travel contracts concluded after 8 March 2020 Article 240 § 6 EGBGB shall apply.

10.5 Damage to, and delayed delivery of, luggage in air travel; special rules and periods for seeking redress

a) The customer is advised that any delayed, lost or damaged luggage in connection with air travel must be reported by the customer in accordance with air traffic regulations to the relevant airline without undue delay on the spot by means of a damage report (P.I.R.). Airlines and tour operators may refuse refunds on the basis of international treaties if the damage report has not been completed. In the event of damage to luggage, the damage report must be filed within 7 days and in the event of delay within 21 days of delivery.

b) In addition, the loss, damage or misdirection of luggage must be reported without undue delay to the representative of VIVA Cruises (tour guide) or VIVA Cruises. This shall not release the customer from filing a damage report with the airline pursuant to lit. a) above within the periods stated above.

11. Limitation of liability

11.1 The contractual liability of VIVA Cruises for damages which do not arise from loss of life, bodily injury or damage to health and which were not culpably (intentionally or negligently) caused is limited to three times the travel price. This maximum liability amount applies per customer and per journey. Any further claims under the Montreal Convention or the Air Traffic Act shall remain unaffected by the limitation.

11.2 VIVA Cruises is not liable for disruptions to services, personal injury and damage to property in connection with services which are merely arranged by VIVA Cruises and actually provided by third parties ("Third-Party Services", e.g. excursions, sports events, theatre visits, exhibitions, transport services from and to the specified place of departure and destination) if these services are expressly marked as Third-Party Services in the travel description and booking confirmation stating the arranged contractual partner in such a clear manner that the customer is able to recognize that these services are not part of the travel services provided by VIVA Cruises. Sections 651b, 651c, 651w and 651y BGB shall remain unaffected. However, VIVA Cruises shall be liable if and to the extent that the violation of VIVA Cruises' duties of information, clarification or organization were the cause of damage to the customer.

11.3 If international agreements or statutory provisions based on such agreements apply to a travel service to be provided by a service provider, according to which a claim for damages can only arise or be asserted under certain conditions or restrictions or is excluded under certain conditions, VIVA Cruises, in its capacity as the tour operator, may invoke the same in its dealings with the customer.

11.4 Where VIVA Cruises acts in the capacity of a contractual or performing carrier with regard to the voyage or VIVA Cruises is regarded as such according to statutory provisions, VIVA Cruises shall be liable according to the specifically applicable statutory provisions (in particular according to the provisions of the German Inland Waterways Act and the German Commercial Code).

11.5 Where VIVA Cruises acts in the capacity of a contractual or performing air carrier with regard to carriage by air or VIVA Cruises is regarded as such according to statutory provisions, VIVA Cruises' liability shall be governed by the specifically applicable statutory provisions or those stipulated in international agreements (including the German Air Traffic Act, the Montreal Convention).

11.6 VIVA Cruises shall not be liable for damage to or loss of personal items (e.g. photographic or film equipment, clothing, jewelry or other valuables) caused by theft, getting lost in any other manner, or excessive physical loads or stresses occurring off board the vessel, unless the damage or loss is due to intentional or grossly negligent conduct on the part of VIVA Cruises. Any and all liability is also excluded for storage or transport in the vehicles used for onshore activities or transfers, unless intentional or grossly negligent conduct on the part of VIVA Cruises has resulted in the damage or loss. VIVA Cruises shall be liable for damage to or loss of cabin luggage in accordance with the provisions of the German Commercial Code. Jewelry, cash, or other valuables must be safely stored and transported in the carry-on luggage during arrival and departure (not in the checked luggage).

11.7 If a claim is made against an employee or agent of VIVA Cruises for damage incurred in connection with the carriage, this employee or agent may, provided he proves that he acted in the performance of his duties, invoke the defenses and limitations of liability which apply to VIVA Cruises under these travel conditions.

12. Limitation of actions, assertion of claims

12.1 The claims of the customer specified in Section 651i Paragraph 3 BGB shall be time-barred in accordance with Section 651j BGB in two years.

12.2 The limitation period starts to run on the day on which the Package Tour is scheduled to end according to the Contract. If the last day of that period falls on a Sunday, a public holiday recognized by the state at the place where the notice is given, or a Saturday, the next business day shall take the place of such a day.

12.3 Claims pursuant to Section 651i Paragraph 3 No. 2, 4-7 BGB must be lodged by the customer with VIVA Cruises. It is recommended to lodge the claim in writing on a permanent data medium.

12.4 If negotiations between the customer and VIVA Cruises about the claim or the circumstances substantiating the claim are pending, the limitation period shall be suspended until the customer or VIVA Cruises refuses to continue the negotiations. The limitation occurs at the earliest three months after the end of the suspension.

12.5 In the case of damage to, or delays in the delivery of, luggage in connection with flights in accordance with Clause 10.4, the following shall apply: A claim for damages due to damage to luggage must be asserted within 7 days, a claim for damages due to delayed luggage within 21 days after delivery.

12.6 The travel agency only acts as an agent when the travel Contract is concluded. It is not authorized to accept the filing of warranty and compensation claims by the customer after the end of the trip.

12.7 Without the consent of VIVA Cruises, customers may not transfer claims against VIVA Cruises to third parties, either in whole or in part. This does not apply among accompanying family members.

13. Carriage by air and obligation to provide information on the identity of the operating air carrier

13.1 If the Tour involves air carriage, this portion of the Tour shall be governed by the terms and conditions of the airline operating the respective flights (cf. also Clause 11.5 regarding liability), which terms and conditions will be provided by VIVA Cruises on request. The scheduling of these special flights depends on the availability of the airplanes on the charter market and the authorization by air-traffic control; therefore, early morning or late-night departures or arrivals may therefore occur.

13.2 The EU regulation on informing air transport passengers of the identity of the operating air carrier puts VIVA Cruises under the obligation to inform the customer of the identity of the operating air carrier for any and all air transport services to be provided within the scope of the booked Package at the time of booking. If the operating airline has not yet been determined at the time of booking, VIVA Cruises is obliged to inform the customer of the airline(s) which is/are likely to operate the flight(s). VIVA Cruises must inform the customer accordingly as soon as VIVA Cruises knows which airline will operate the flight. If due to changes another airline than the one specified to the customer will be the operating airline, VIVA Cruises must inform the customer accordingly. VIVA Cruises must immediately take all reasonable steps to ensure that the customer is informed of any such changes as soon as possible. The list of airlines banned from operating within the EU ("Black List") is available on the following website: https://ec.europa.eu/transport/modes/air/safety/air-ban_en

14. Rail booking

14.1 All train tickets booked through VIVA Cruises can only be booked in connection with a package tour offered by VIVA Cruises.

14.2 The train tickets booked through VIVA Cruises must be carried on the Tour and presented upon ticket control on the train.

14.3 If the customer books a train ticket to the airport through VIVA Cruises, the customer must choose his train ride such that he reaches the airport as scheduled at least three hours prior to the departure of the flight. If the customer books a train ticket to the port, departure must be chosen such that he reaches the ship at least three hours prior to its specified departure. If these time periods are not complied with and if the customer is responsible for such non-compliance, VIVA Cruises shall not be liable for any possible consequential damages.

14.4 The train ride booked through VIVA Cruises is an integral part of the Package Tour. Any claims due to delays, train cancellations or other deficiencies of the train ride can be asserted either against VIVA Cruises or directly against DB Dialog GmbH, Servicenter Fahrgastrechte, 60647 Frankfurt, Germany. For this purpose, the completed passenger rights form (Fahrgastrechte-Formular), the original train ticket, the certificate of delay, and, if applicable, any other original receipts for which the customer requires reimbursement must be submitted.

15. Passport, visa and health regulations

15.1 The customer must comply with all laws, regulations, directions or provisions of travel (rules and regulations) of the countries and ports affected by the Tour, and with all instructions issued by VIVA Cruises and its agents. VIVA Cruises shall inform customers who are citizens of EU members states about general passport and visa requirements as well as formalities required by health authorities of the country of destination, including the approximate deadlines for obtaining visas, prior to the conclusion of the Contract and any changes thereto prior to departure. Citizens of other countries may obtain that information from the competent consulate. This always under the assumption that no special circumstances apply to the person of the customer and any accompanying persons (such as dual citizenship, statelessness).

15.2 The customer is responsible for obtaining and carrying the travel documents required by the authorities (such as visa, vaccination certificates, online travel permits such as the ESTA authorization for US travel), any necessary vaccinations and compliance with customs and foreign exchange regulations. Any loss arising from non-compliance with these regulations, e.g. the payment of cancellation costs, fines, penalties and expenses, shall be borne by the customer, unless VIVA Cruises has not provided any, or only has provided insufficient or incorrect, information. If VIVA Cruises has to pay or deposit sums of money in this connection, the customer is obliged to reimburse those immediately.

15.3 Additional costs (e.g. for additional catering on board) that arise due to a quarantine for which VIVA Cruises is not responsible are to be borne or reimbursed by the customer.

15.4 In the event that the customer fails to comply with the entry rules of individual countries or visa are not granted in time due to the customer's fault, so that the customer is unable to participate in the Tour for that reason, VIVA Cruises may charge the customer with the cancellation fees in accordance with Clause 5. In this case, the customer has the right to prove to VIVA Cruises that no damage has occurred or that the damage is significantly lower than the lump-sum compensation.

16. Information for persons with reduced mobility and other restrictions

16.1 VIVA Cruises wishes to ensure that customers with physical disabilities can enjoy a pleasant journey on board the ships of its fleet. For this purpose, VIVA Cruises must be informed of any special requests and needs of the customer due to physical impairments before booking. VIVA Cruises will then always endeavor to help the customer achieve the best possible travel experience, in particular by checking the suitability of the Package Tour requested by the customer and providing the customer with more detailed information in this respect.

16.2 The safety of the customer has priority at VIVA Cruises. For this reason, all customers who are deaf, in a wheelchair, blind or whose vision is considerably impaired despite vision aids, have to inform VIVA Cruises of their restrictions before booking. Together, we can then ponder the measures that are necessary to ensure the safety of the customer on board and for any planned excursions (e.g. accompanying person on the journey). If the restrictions only occur after booking, the customer must inform VIVA Cruises in good time so that any necessary measures can be agreed for the safety of the customer.

17. Refusal of landing permit, cost of onward journey

If the landing or entry of the customer and/or the import of his luggage in the designated port or country is refused, VIVA Cruises may transport the customer and/or his luggage to another port or country called at by the vessel and disembark them there. The customer must pay VIVA Cruises a fee corresponding to the onward journey and compensate VIVA Cruises for all other expenses incurred in connection therewith. These terms and conditions of travel shall also apply to such onward journey.

18. Assistance, salvage

VIVA Cruises shall be entitled to provide assistance to other ships, to tow and salvage ships with the vessel used. All such activities, whether previously announced or not, shall be deemed part of the Tour.

19. Medical care

The services of the ship's physician – if one is carried onboard - are not part of the Package Travel Contract. In each case, the patient concludes a separate treatment contract with the ship's physician. Only the costs of treatment resulting from an accident caused by VIVA Cruises or its employees on board or during an onshore activity organized by VIVA Cruises shall be borne by VIVA Cruises.

20. Applicable law, jurisdiction, alternative dispute resolution

20.1 These Standard Terms and Conditions and the legal relationship as a whole between VIVA Cruises and the customer are subject to the substantive law of the Federal Republic of Germany.

20.2 The place of jurisdiction for legal actions against VIVA Cruises is Düsseldorf. The place of residence of the customer shall govern the place of jurisdiction for any legal action brought by VIVA Cruises against the customer. As regards actions against customers who are merchants [as defined in the German Commercial Code], legal entities under public or private law, or persons who have their residence or habitual abode abroad, or whose residence or habitual abode is unknown at the time of bringing the action, Düsseldorf shall be agreed as the place of jurisdiction.

20.3 The provisions set forth above shall not apply

a) if and to the extent that provisions of international agreements applicable to this contractual relationship, which cannot be contracted away, provide otherwise in favor of the customer, or

b) if and to the extent that provisions of a member state of the EU to which the customer belongs, which are applicable to the Package Travel Contract and cannot be contracted away, are more favorable to the customer than these provisions or the corresponding German statutory provisions.

20.4 With a view to the German Consumer Dispute Resolution Act, VIVA Cruises points out that it is not participating in voluntary consumer dispute resolution. Should consumer dispute resolution become mandatory for VIVA Cruises after the printing of these travel conditions, VIVA Cruises will inform the customer accordingly in an appropriate manner. VIVA Cruises refers to the European online dispute resolution platform at https://ec.europa.eu/consumers/odr/ for all travel contracts entered into by electronic legal transaction. VIVA Cruises is not currently participating in this voluntary procedure.
